ABSTRACT

This guide lists published materials on many aspects of bioethics, the literature of which is varied and scattered. Related guides in the LC Science Tracer Bullet series are TB 80-9, Terminal Care, TB 80-11, Drug Research on Human Subjects, TB 83-4, Science Policy, and TB 84-7, Biotechnology. Not intended to be a comprehensive bibliography, this guide is designed-as the name of the series implies-to put the reader "on target." Sections include: (1) introductions to the topic; (2) subject headings used by the Library of Congress, under which books on bioethics can be located in most card, book, CD-ROM, and online catalogs; (3) basic texts; (4) additional texts; (5) related and specialized texts; (6) handbooks, dictionaries, and encyclopedias; (7) sources for locating conference proceedings; (8) selected conference proceedings; (9) government publications; (10) selected government publications; (11) abstracting and indexing services that index relevant journal articles and other literature; (12) journals in which articles on bioethics can be found; (13) representative journal articles; (14) selected materials available in the Science Reading Room pamphlet boxes; and (15) additional sources of information. ## BIOETHICS

Compiled by Cathy Martin and Michelle Cadoree

TB 91-4 March 1991

ED344773

SCOPE: New biological technologies have sharply extended the power to control, explain, and predict human attributes and life processes. This increased capability and knowledge forces the ethical question, "We can do it, but should we?"

Bioethics is defined as the "ethical principles ... which govern the uses of biological and medical technology, especially as they bear directly on the treatment of human life." (Blakiston's Gould Medical Dictionary, 4th ed., 1979). Some of the specific bioethical issues that have recently gained national and international attention include euthanasia, in vitro fertilization, surrogate motherhood, human experimentation, genetic engineering, abortion, organ donation, and AIDS.

Participants in the discussion of bioethics include physicians and other health care professionals, biologists, psychologists, sociologists, lawyers, historians, and philosophical and religious ethicists. Increasingly, in recent years, professional societies, federal and state legislatures, and the courts have had to face questions related to bioethics. Correspondingly, there has been a vast increase in the literature on bioethical issues.

This guide lists published materials on many aspects of bioethics, the literature of which is varied and scattered. Related guides in the LC Science Tracer Bullet series are TB 80-9, Terminal Care, TB 80-11, Drug Research on Human Subjects, TB 83-4, Science Policy, and TB 84-7, Biotechnology. Not intended to be a comprehensive bibliography, this guide is designed--as the name of the series implies--to put the reader on target.
